First AFS Student from the Soviet Union Expected This September at Princeton High

Glasnost continues to stretch out to Princeton, with special emphasis on building ties with young people. This time, a student from the Soviet Union will attend Princeton High School beginning in September. This is the first time the Soviet Union has participated in an AFS student exchange — and the Princeton chapter has been selected to host one of the ten high-school-age students.

Right now, the chapter is urgently seeking a host family for the student, who is scheduled to arrive about August 20. The family may select either a male or female student.

Also being sought is a home for a female teacher from China. She, as well as the student, will attend Princeton High School from September to June. The teacher will arrive in early September. The duration of both the student's and the teacher's stay in a host home can be as short as three months or as long as the entire school year.

In January, 11 Soviet teenagers spent 3½ weeks with Princeton Day School families, attending the school and doing such things as going bowling, seeing a movie, going to a record store, attending a basketball game, seeing a play and concert at McCarter, touring Princeton University, and visiting Washington, D.C.

This visit was arranged through a US-USSR High School Academic Partnership administered by a consor-

Planning Authorities Finish Huge Assignment: Adoption of Princeton Community Master Plan

It was 9:45 p.m. on Tuesday, July 18, when the 1989 Princeton Community Master Plan was adopted by the Planning Board. Planning Board Chairwoman Margen Penick called on Phyllis Marchand, Township Mayor, to make the motion for adoption, which was seconded by Marvin Reed, Borough Deputy Mayor. Mrs. Penick called for a show of hands, and when all 12 members present put their hands up, she declared, "Therefore the Master Plan is adopted" and banged the gavel for adjournment.

Professional Planner Duggan Kimball sprawled in his chair in relief and disbelief; Pearl Pillon, Planning Board administrative coordinator, took pictures of all the Board members on the historic occasion. Although it contains some specific zoning changes — most of which are in the Township — the 1989 Master Plan is less of a definitive planning document for the future than it is a massive homework assignment for the planner, the master plan subcommittee and the consultants.

As expected, the Board deferred to the fall a decision on how to treat the Institute lands. As part of that assignment, the master plan subcommittee will also look at the issue of whether or not the Institute lands should be designated for a second future school site. It will also have to decide whether the utilities element should be amended to allow the Institute land to be sewered.

There will have to be another public hearing (or hearings) and another vote on these three interrelated issues, and the final printing of the Master Plan will be delayed until after the vote. Meanwhile, the master copy of the plan on file in Mr. Kimball's office will indicate that further study is under way.

But in the meantime, the board's present intentions — that the Institute confine any future development to a specified area and that the remaining lands be in a new very-low-density agricultural/residential zone — will obtain. The 1980 Master Plan suggested one-half- to one-third-acre minimum lot development for the Institute lands, and the board wants to rectify what it feels is too high density for this lovely part of the community.

As it came to vote on the Master Plan, the Planning Board decided that it would study or re-examine some of its recommendations. Among them are:

Young Woman Assaulted With Unknown Weapon

A 19-year-old Township resident on her way home was struck on the head Sunday evening as she was walking on Westerly Road near Elm Road.

The victim was taken to Princeton Medical Center where she received seven sutures to close her head laceration. She was treated and released. There was no conversation with her assailant and no theft, Lt. Peter Hanley reported. The victim, he said, never lost consciousness.

According to Lt. Hanley, the victim has just turned onto Westerly Road about

Expansion Plans of ETS Upheld by Two Decisions In County Superior Court

Mercer County Superior Court Judge Paul G. Levy has handed down two decisions in the past two weeks in favor of Educational Testing Service.

On July 11, Judge Levy dismissed the Carter Rosedale Road Defense Organization's challenge to the settlement agreement negotiated between the Lawrence Township Planning Board and the testing organization. That agreement was negotiated following a suit which ETS brought in January, 1988, after the Planning Board failed by a tie vote to approve its expansion plans.

The agreement allows ETS to build four new office buildings totalling 447,000 square feet at its Rosedale Road campus if certain traffic management techniques are in place and found to reduce traffic counts to specific levels before each construction phase begins.

Residents of Carter and Rosedale Roads sought to 9:30 when her assailant, described as a white male in his late 50s, came up behind her and struck her with an unknown object. No object was found at the scene by police.

The suspect was further described as about six feet tall, with brown hair and scruffy facial hair. He had thin arms and legs and a large chest and was wearing shorts and a T-shirt.

Borough police were notified of the assault by the Township dispatcher. The Borough-Township line runs right through that area, Lt. Hanley said.

tium composed of the American Council of Teachers of Russian, the National Association of Secondary School Principals and Sister Cities, International.

At Princeton High School, too, Soviet-American contacts have been increasing. There is an ongoing telecommunications link between the students of Troitsk, U.S.S.R., and the Princeton Schools. The link is facilitated through the San Francisco Teleport.

Also under way is a three-way Princeton-Trenton-Soviet bridge, which involves forging a partnership among Princeton High School, Trenton Central High School, and a school in the Soviet Union. A third initiative, still in an early stage, would involve exchanges between computer science students in the U.S.S.R. and Princeton.

Persons interested in hosting the Soviet student or Chinese teacher, or who wish more information, should call Vicky Moy at 924-0028. Although most host families are composed of two parents and two children, AFS families have included single parents, single people, couples with no children, and couples whose children no longer live at home.

ETS Decisions

prevent the expansion and cited in their complaint a variety of legal technicalities, none of which were upheld by the judge. However, by their action the residents gained time for Lawrence Township to adopt its new zoning ordinance incorporating master plan recommendations for the entire township.

The new ordinance creates an "environmental protection" or EP zone of the ETS and Squibb properties and limits the amount of building that can take place on these properties by lowering the allowable FAR (floor area ratio).

Under this new ordinance neither ETS nor Squibb will be able to undertake new building expansion beyond that which has already been approved by the Planning Board.

To help pay for the expansion, ETS wants to rent out part of the buildings until such time as the space is needed for its own employees. Neighbors were particularly upset at this proposal. They felt that ETS had maintained from the beginning that it would be the sole owner/occupier when it sought the conditional use variance in the 1950's that allowed it to build its facility in a residential area. They also feared that multiple tenants would mean more traffic and less control.

Conflict of Interest. To strengthen the somewhat ambiguous language in regard to use contained in the section of the zoning ordinance pertaining to the ETS property, Lawrence Township Council adopted the "single-user" ordinance in 1987 by 4-1 vote. ETS challenged the validity of the ordinance on the grounds that one councilman, Robert C. Kuser Jr., had a conflict of interest because his father owned property adjacent to ETS. Without his vote, the measure would not have passed the two-thirds majority required when ETS filed a protest against the ordinance.

In 1988, Judge Levy ruled that the ordinance was invalid and that the councilman had an "unintentional" conflict of interest. Judge Levy gave the Lawrence Council 90 days to reconsider the single-user ordinance and readopt it. Council did so, and ETS sued once more.

Last Friday, Judge Levy ruled that the single user provision is "unauthorized" by the Municipal Land Use Law and is therefore "void and invalid." Thus all the legal obstacles preventing ETS from breaking ground on the four new office buildings have been removed.

Meanwhile, however, ETS entered into a "lease partnership agreement" early this year with the Landis Group, developers of the Carnegie Center on Route 1. The agreement calls for ETS to lease up to four of the five office buildings that the Landis Group will be building in the 500-series at the western edge of its property. The first two buildings, totalling 280,000 square feet, are in the final design phase now and are expected to be completed in the summer of 1991.

Lease Not Renewable. That is when the lease ETS holds for 200,000 square feet at the Neshaminy-Maple Point High School in Langhorne, Pa., expires. According to John McBride, ETS executive director for corporate administration, the lease is not renewable because the school is being returned to school use. Concern that litigation over the Rosedale Road campus expansion would delay its ability to bring the employees at this site to the main campus prompted ETS to enter into the agreement with the Carnegie Center developer.

ETS expects to occupy 50,000 square feet of an existing office building at Carnegie Center this fall while the two new buildings are under construction.

Mr. McBride said, "We are extremely pleased at Judge Levy's decision in both cases. This rounds out our process, and the application is essentially approved as it was originally submitted in August, 1986. The planning challenge for us is how to best blend the Rosedale Road project with the project at Carnegie Center."

Mr. McBride said he could give no estimate as to when ground-breaking might take place for the first phase of the Rosedale Road expansion. The project has received an Army Corps of Engineers national permit for what he calls a small amount of "damp upland" incursion. He also says that the numerous intersection improvements which were a condition of Planning Board approval are in the process of being reviewed by Mercer County engineers.

He said ETS will be looking at the timing of building the 447,000 square feet of new space on Rosedale Road in light of the new space at Carnegie Center. But he seemed pleased to have what he called "two fine projects" to work with — "which is not where we were a year ago."

Neighbors in Contention Before Planning Board

Neighborhood arguments flared into the open at the Planning Board meeting last week.

Two of the five applications on the agenda at last Thursday's work session quickly revealed themselves as neighborhood issues, but neither was easily resolved. One involved an attempt to solve a parking problem at a multi-tenanted dwelling at the corner of Wiggins and Madison streets. In the other, Linden Lane residents accused the Westminster Choir College of being untidy and untrustworthy as they sought to block the Choir College's request to build a maintenance shed on its property behind their homes.

Samuel Procaccini, owner of 39 Wiggins Street but a resident of Sycamore Road, sought permission to enlarge the driveway from the Madison Street side of the corner property to provide six parking spaces. In addition to site plan approval, Mr. Procaccini needed a variance to allow parking spaces that were smaller than allowed. The Borough standard requires parking spaces that are 9 feet by 19 feet; Mr. Procaccini proposed spaces 8 by 15 feet.

He told the board that there are five dwelling units in the building and that tenants currently park one behind the other in the driveway. "There is stack parking now, and when one wants to get out, someone else has to move," he said. To solve this problem, he proposed five angled spaces between the driveway and the house, and one ancillary space for a service vehicle next to an existing garage.

Parking Is Needed. Ted Cox, 42 Wiggins Street, agreed that parking is badly needed, because, he said, the tenants park all over the grass, under the trees and across the sidewalk. But he and other neighbors objected to the fact that because so many spaces were being jammed into a very small space, one or two cars would be sticking out into the side-yard set-back.

Mr. Cox asked the Planning Board to require the owner to pull the parking further forward so that this side-yard "frontage" would not be violated. Charles English, who lives at 24 Madison Street, immediately adjacent to the subject property, told the board that "great strides" had been made in recent years to upgrade the neighborhood, and that the frontage along Madison Street bore evidence of this in its lawns, flower beds and trees.

Mr. English objected to what he described as the conversion of a driveway situation to a parking lot with no screening. He told the board that the chain link fence between himself and the subject property was in disrepair, and that he doubted that cars could maneuver into and out of the below-standard parking spaces without ramming the fence or even coming onto his property.

Earlier, Mr. Procaccini rejected a Planning Board suggestion that he substitute a stockade fence for the chain link in order to screen the parking from the neighbors. But neighbors particularly resented Mr. Procaccini's refusal to tear down the garage on his property in order to gain additional space in which to locate the parking.

Resolution. "Why should I tear down my garage?" he asked. It was revealed that he uses the garage to park his own vehicle. Mr. Procaccini brought photographs to show the stacking situation, and Mr. English brought photographs to show cars parked "helter-skelter," as he put it, on the grass.

Attempting a resolution of what she said was a difficult problem and one which the applicant was trying to solve, Planning Board Chairwoman Margen Penick proposed a motion: that the application be approved on the condition that Mr. Procaccini replace the chain link fence with a stockade fence; that the parking space closest to the street be removed from the plan; that the garage be used for tenant parking; and that the spaces be widened to nine feet.

Hans Sander and Michael Landau voted against the motion, because they felt cars would not be able to maneuver in and out of such small spaces. The motion was approved by the other nine members of the board. Disappointed and angry, Mr. Procaccini told Mrs. Penick that being required to use the garage for tenant parking would mean a stacking situation all over again.

He left the meeting still angry and threatening to take down the chain link fence all to-

UNCERTAIN FUTURE FOR STEPS: The three steps outside The Garden Theatre were being looked at again after a woman tripped on them last week. The Borough Engineering Department and the contractor for the sidewalk, Fellows-Read, feel the situation could improve when the new street lights are installed. Other options are to place a planter alongside the steps, or to replace them with a different design that will also deal with the change in elevation. In the meantime, a barricade has been installed at the site.

Maintenance Shed. Next on the agenda was Westminster Choir College's request for permission to build a maintenance building of about 6,200 square feet and a detention basin. The building would be 78 feet from residential properties along Linden Lane.

In its review, the Site Plan Review Advisory Board had suggested that landscaping to buffer the building from the neighbors be discussed with the Planning Board's landscape subcommittee and had called attention to a 150-watt high pressure sodium light that would be affixed to the building. Ralph Thayer, director of physical facilities, agreed to lower the wattage and to review the landscaping.

Mrs. Penick opened the public hearing, and Kenneth Field of Linden Lane proceeded to give the Planning Board a slide show of pictures he had taken of the Choir College land behind his property. A tense young man who evidently bears no love for the Choir College, Mr. Field portrayed it as malevolently using the back end of its property as a dumping ground.

There were slides of old tires and refuse, piles of gravel and construction materials. To counter the Choir College request for parking for 10 cars behind the proposed maintenance building, he showed what he said were abandoned cars and an abandoned tractor trailer in the existing parking lot at the corner of Franklin Avenue.

Other neighbors joined in. Ralph Pirone, former owner of No. 96, said the Choir College land had become a junk area. Joe King, 122 Linden Lane, told the board the maintenance shed was an "ill-advised project and an encroachment." John Gormley, 100 Linden Lane, wondered about loitering and bemoaned the loss of trees and birds.

There were other complaints about standing puddles of water big enough to skate on in the winter because of drainage problems dating back to 1968, when Franklin Avenue was realigned and the Choir College gave some of its land so that the John Witherspoon School could be built. There were concerns about tractor trailers coming through the neighborhood to reach the maintenance building and the safety of school children walking to school.

President's Response. William Fuller, Choir College president, said, "I wish the neighbors had come to talk to us about their concerns. I have received not one letter, not one phone call. However, what they have done here is to argue our case for us. The maintenance/storage building will allow us to do what needs to be done."

Mr. Fuller acknowledged that the white pine trees put in to screen the parking lot were so tall now that they do not do the job they were intended to do, and that they needed pruning. But he said the Choir College had begun to put in some additional plantings and was aware of the need for more.

He said the parking lot was a Borough requirement, and that the "abandoned" tractor trailer was in fact the Choir College's only place to store maintenance equipment. He said the cars belonged to students who left them there while they were off singing in festivals in this country and abroad.

Mr. Fuller told the residents that the trench they complained about was for new electrical work required by code, and that the proposed detention basin could help the drainage problems. He also said that at the most there would be two tractor traders a week making deliveries, but that most of the traffic would be step vans and delivery trucks.

He concluded by saying he hoped to talk with the residents "often." Cathy King, 122 Linden Lane, had the last word for the residents. "They were once very lovely neighbors," Mrs. King said, "But we really don't trust them. They have not done what they said they would. We have been complaining — the basic thing is the drainage. I don't believe they'll do what they say."

About the proposed maintenance building, she said, "It's such a big building, and there will be noise and trucks. This is a neighborhood. But it seems like they want to put up a factory."

"I have seen too little [of your plans] tonight to reach a decision," Hans Sander told Mr. Fuller. He suggested that the Choir College prepare an entire site plan/master plan of its current and future building plans and that this be reviewed with the professional planner and a subcommittee of the Planning Board before the application is returned to the board. Mrs. Penick suggested some of the neighbors be invited so that there can be a resolution of some of the issues.

Mr. Fuller agreed.

In other business, the board grudgingly granted permission to Princeton University to demolish a building at 111 Prospect Avenue that had been declared an "unsafe structure" by the Borough Engineer. The building at one time belonged to the Knights of Columbus.

Planning Board members were concerned as to what future use the University might make of the property, but Eugene McPartland, vice president for facilities, said there were no plans for the use of that space.

Princeton Day School was granted permission for two temporary trailers to be used as classrooms until its new classroom wing is built. The application of Georgetown Partners, owners of the former Hulit's Shoes building at 140 Nassau Street, for a warehouse addition, was carried to the September 6 meeting at the request of the applicant.

Donations are needed for the 71st annual arts, antiques and rummage sale, sponsored by the Auxiliary of the Princeton Medical Center. Small appliances, books, jewelry, toys, sporting goods, clothing, housewares and other items may be brought to the Princeton House Storage Facility, Herrontown Road off Route 206, this Saturday and Saturday, August 12, from 9 a.m. to noon. All items should be in good, usable condition.

Approval Is Expected Of Two-Hour Meters

An ordinance establishing two-hour parking meters on the town side of Nassau Street, between Palmer Square and Vandeventer Avenue, was expected to be approved by Borough Council at its Tuesday, July 25, meeting.

The meters, which were requested by Borough Merchants for Princeton, a group of downtown merchants and business persons, are being put in as an experiment, said Council President Marvin Reed.

"We're worried it will compound the problem with meter feeding," he said. "It is obvious we have to keep the pressure on for ticketing of meter feeders. This is even more important than chasing around people who are three minutes late on the meter."

Mr. Reed cautioned that the Nassau Street meters will return to one-hour ones unless meter feeding can be controlled.

Several months ago, the meters on Palmer Square were set for two hours. "Complaints are still being received from people who see people coming out of stores feeding meters," said Mr. Reed. "If that is the case, we will put them back to one hour."

The merchants have requested the longer meters throughout town, said Mr. Reed. "But somehow the merchants and business people have to cooperate and see that their employees park somewhere else."

The situation will probably be evaluated at the beginning of next year. In the meantime, Council expects to continue monitoring police reports each month and will continue to ask why there are so few meter feeding tickets compared to overtime, said Mr. Reed.

Home Is Ransacked On Herrontown Road

A Herrontown Road home was entered last week and ransacked of cash, jewelry and electronic items valued at $5300.

The home was entered in daylight hours between 9:15 and 5:15, through, Township police believe, an unlocked door off an outside deck. According to Lt. Mario Musso no one was seen and there are no suspects.

Taken was $500 in cash and about $100 in loose change. Also a $1,200 computer, a CD player, cassette player and two VCRs all valued at $500 each, a $700 television set, an $800 stereo receiver and articles of men's jewelry.

Borough police report that a home on Western Way was broken into last week by an intruder who first removed a screen to enter a second-floor window.

Nothing is missing, Lt. Peter Hanley said. That home was also entered during daylight hours between noon and 4:30.

Lytle St. Man Charged With Cafeteria Burglary

Parris Daniels, 25, of Lytle Street, has been charged by Borough police with burglary and criminal mischief, after he allegedly entered the unlocked, first-floor cafeteria at the Princeton Medical Center.

According to Lt. Peter Hanley, Parris is alleged to have entered the cafeteria between 7 last Wednesday evening and 6 the next morning. He then broke into the cash register and damaged it, but there was no money in the register, police said.

Daniels was arrested Sunday evening on Lytle Street, charged and later released, pending his appearance August 2 in Borough court. His arrest was the result of an investigation by Detectives James Agins and Gerald Patterson who followed up the original investigation by Ptl. Ronald Wohlschlegel.

Lt. Hanley declined to reveal how police were able to connect Daniels to the burglary.

Trespassers Nabbed. Three youths, 18-year-old Noah Worthen of Rocky Hill, a 17-year-old Hopewell resident and a 16-year-old from Belle Mead, were found by police at 12:30 Thursday morning on the rooftop of a building on Witherspoon Street near Nassau. Lt. Hanley said the roof had access to buildings on Palmer Square.

Worthen has been charged with defiant trespass, the other two with juvenile delinquency. Police were called to the area by a resident. Lt. Hanley said it is not known if any entries were made and the investigation is continuing.

Tree Limb as Weapon. A 16-year-old Trenton resident has been charged by police with juvenile delinquency for possession of a weapon for unlawful purpose. That weapon was a tree limb.

According to Lt. Hanley, the youth was seen running away from police who were on patrol on Nassau Street near Olden at 11:40 Monday evening. Upon questioning by police, the youth revealed that he had been in an argument with another youth over a girl and was going to settle it with the tree limb. The other person has not been located, Lt. Hanely said.

Criminal Charges Result Of Man's Odd Behavior

A Mercerville resident, Albert J. Smith, 31, has been charged by Township police with being under the influence of a controlled dangerous substance and soliciting without a permit, following an incident last week with a Hilltop Drive resident.

Lt. Mario Musso said that Mr. Smith was not abusive but "was acting strangely, as if he were under the influence of something."

The incident began last Monday a few minutes before five when the Hilltop homeowner saw Smith drinking from her water hose and washing himself off. When she questioned him about who he was and what he was doing, Smith asked her for a nickel. She refused and called Township police.

Sgt. John Clausen, Ptl. Sean Reed, and Ptl. Ernest Silagyi located Smith walking on Route 206 near Woodland Drive dressed only in a pair of white shorts and blue socks. He refused to answer officers' questions. He had no identification on him, Lt. Musso said.

According to Lt. Musso, Smith was covered with mud and he did explain that he had laid down and put mud all over his body to cool off because he was warm. He was attempting to clean himself off with the hose.

Police took a sample Smith's urine and had it sent to a State police lab for analysis. He was arraigned the same night and later released, pending his appearance in court.

AND BABY MAKES THREE — $300 THAT IS: Jane Foote holds 1-year-old Katherine who was born last July in the family Volkswagen Quantum. "We just made it to the Mercer Hospital parking lot," recalls Mrs. Foote. "If that was the first, I would have panicked." As it is, she and her husband, Robert, a teacher and football, basketball and baseball coach at the Peddie School in Hightstown, have a two-year-old son, Thomas. While a Volkswagen may not be the best delivery room to have a baby, it netted the Footes $300 in U. S. Savings Bonds, presented by Robert Feldman and his daughter, Stacey, principals of Princeton Volkswagen on Route 206. Since the first reported birth in a Volkswagen in 1964, Volkswagen of American has awarded Savings Bonds to nearly 500 "Bond Babies", as they are known, under its Bonds for Babies Born in Volkswagens program. Said sales manager Joe Kohanski at Princeton VW, "The birth of Katherine has confirmed what we at Volkswagen have always known: there's always room for one more in a Volkswagen."

Outboard Engine Stolen From Heather Lane Lawn

An 8 H.P. Mercury outboard engine valued at $1,050 and a canvas cover valued at $35 were stolen last week in the Township.

Police said the engine and cover were attached to a boat on the front lawn of the victim, a resident of Heather Lane. The engine was lifted off, police said, and carried away

A resident of Washington Crossing, Pa. lost $115 when someone entered her car while it was parked in the Community Park pool lot.

The victim told police she had locked her 1988 Subaru. However, the left front window was rolled down two inches. She drove to a store where she discovered that her pocketbook, which she had placed in the rear hatchback section, was missing. Aside from the pocketbook, nothing else was taken or disturbed in the car.

A Cranbury resident, after sitting on a Palmer Square bench early Saturday evening, got up and walked away, leaving her purse behind. She returned a short time later but her purse and the $20 it contained were gone.

Between $10 and $15 in loose change was stolen overnight last week from an unlocked drawer at the volunteer counter inside the main entrance to the Princeton Medical Center.

Other items stolen in the Borough last week include a $100 wooden rocking chair taken from the front porch of a Moore Street home; a telephone from a hallway bracket near the 22nd entry to the New Graduate College building, part of the University's internal phone system; and a windbreaker left by a 16-year-old New York City resident on a bench by the fountain at the Woodrow Wilson building. In one of the jacket's pockets was $20.

In an act of criminal mischief in the Borough on Friday, someone poured a liquid on a 1987 Nissan sedan while it was parked in a private lot in the 200 block of Nassau Street. The unidentified solution caused the paint to discolor.

Police identified the victim as an employee in the area and a resident of Levittown, Pa.

Car Is Hit from Behind At Mercer and Quaker

There was a two-car collision Thursday at the intersection of Mercer and Quaker Roads.

According to the police report, a 1989 Sable operated by Henry D. Doyle, 60, of The Hun School, Edgerstoune Road, had stopped on Mercer with its turn signal on, waiting to turn left onto Quaker Road,

It was struck from behind by a car driven by Joyce A. Metz, 43, of Trenton, who told police that she did not see the stopped car. She was issued a summons for careless driving.

Mr. Doyle was taken to Princeton Medical Center where he was treated for a neck injury. His car had to be left at the scene.

Report Cards for Schools Will Arrive in November

There is something new under the sun: report cards for schools. The first of these, compiled by the State, are scheduled to be released by November 11. The date coincides, by design, with American Education Week.

Parents of students in the Princeton Regional Schools — and in all other school districts in the State — will receive a report card that summarizes information about each school's enrollment, test scores, attendance, mobility rates, professional/student ratio, district per-pupil cost, and more. Special education will be excluded.

While the purpose of the school report card is to increase the accountability of each school to the community, Princeton Regional officials have several concerns. The card, for example, will make it easy to compare Princeton elementary schools, particularly in sensitive areas like test scores.

"I'm concerned about comparing Community Park, Littlebrook and Riverside," said School Board member Joel Cooper. "I'm afraid of divisiveness within the District."

There is some worry that, beginning with the second year of the report card, movement up or down will become an issue.

School officials also foresee that comparisons will be made between districts, and that like districts will also be publicly compared.

In a memo to Superintendent of Schools Carol Choye, Director of Technology and Planning Len Scrogan suggests that the District might want to include a letter to parents with the report card. The letter could explain that indicators important to Princeton — such as self-esteem and quality of student life — do not appear on the school report board.

We believe that academic excellence later in life is largely due to an enthusiasm for learning inspired during the early years when a child's motivation is high and his/her chances for success are good. Students in our program in no way leave childhood behind for the sole purpose of intellectual growth. A TALE OF TWO BRIDGES: The new Harrison Street bridge (top) a main connecting link to Princeton, scheduled to reopen December 2, after the original span was closed on July 19, 1985 and later torn down, is now scheduled to open a month earlier on November 2 — in time, merchants note happily, for the Christmas buying season. The Carter Road bridge, a main link between Princeton, Hopewell and Pennington, was closed February 1 this year. The center portion of the new span (below) is now in place and the bridge, originally listed to be closed for a year, is now scheduled to open December 2.

Dedication Ceremony Set At Renovated Houses

Habitat for Humanity of Trenton will celebrate the completion of two houses in Trenton with a dedication ceremony on Saturday at 4 p.m. The ceremonies will take place in front of the two houses, at 666 and 668 North Clinton Avenue, followed by tours of the newly occupied houses. The public is invited.

The property at 666 North Clinton was sold to Habitat for Humanity by the City of Trenton in 1988. The housing group obtained 668 North Clinton from a bank at the same time. The two residences were completely refurbished during 1988 and 1989 and now are homes to two area families.

Each house represents thousands of hours of volunteer labor from local concerned citizens, churches, schools, and businesses. The dedication ceremony is a time to reflect on the efforts of all and to celebrate the continued relationship of volunteers and partner families, working together to bring low-cost housing to people in need.

Habitat for Humanity is a nonprofit organization dedicated to improving poverty housing by working in partnership with poor people to build or refurbish houses. Through the efforts of volunteer workers and future homeowners, these houses are built for low-income families with donated money and materials. Potential homeowners are required to put in their own 500 hours of "sweat equity" toward the completion of an edifice.

The houses are then sold to families at no profit with a no-interest, 20 year loan. Their payments are then "recycled" to build more houses.

The Habitat for Humanity of Trenton affiliate was formed in 1986 when an ecumenical group of citizens concerned about housing came together. Its first project was a refurbished house on North Olden Ave., completed in the spring of 1988. The North Clinton Avenue houses are the second and third such projects. The affiliate is currently building six new townhouses on North Clinton Avenue, adjacent to those recently completed.

For more information on Habitat for Humanity of Trenton, and how one can become involved as a volunteer, write the local office at 20 Nassau Street, No. 200, Princeton, 08542, or call 921-3695.

$5 Million to Princeton For Economics Building

Princeton University has announced a gift of $5 million from Donald G. and Doris F. Fisher of San Francisco, Calif., toward construction of the building that will house the University's Economics Department.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher, founders of The Gap Inc., clothing manufacturer and retailer, are parents of three graduates of the University. The building, to be named Fisher Hall, is already under construction on Prospect Avenue near the Woodrow Wilson School and is scheduled to be completed in time for occupancy during the fall 1990 semester.

Deadline Is August 15 For YWCA Craft Show

The application deadline for artisans interested in exhibiting in the Craftwomen's Marketplace in November is Tuesday, August 15. The event is a benefit for the YWCA's scholarship fund.

A juried show, now in its 16th year, the Craftswomen's Marketplace, is held at Stuart Country Day School and attracts 100 crafters (both men and women) and more than 2000 shoppers looking for one-of-a-kind crafts, whether fine art or country wares. The dates for the sale are Saturday and Sunday, November 18 and 19.

Crafters interested in receiving application forms should call Camille Baldick, 683-9863, or write to Craftwomen's Marketplace, Princeton YWCA, Paul Robeson Place, Princeton, 08540. Applications must be postmarked no later than August 15, and be accompanied by at least three color 35mm slides showing the artisan's representative work.

Although no commission is taken on sales, there is a $3.50-per-shopper admission fee, the proceeds of which go to make YWCA programs accessible to needy women and their children.

Volunteers and Sponsors Sought for Hopewell Fair

Community volunteers are organizing the third annual Hopewell Harvest Fair, an old-fashioned town celebration scheduled for September 16 on the grounds of the Hopewell Elementary School on Princeton Avenue, Hopewell.

Sponsors, exhibitors and volulnteers are sought for the event, organized under the auspices of the Hopewell Business Assoication. In the last two years, $23,000 in proceeds from the fair have been donated to area charities and civic organizations.

Most of the events and attractions of last year's fair are scheduled to appear again. More are being added, including exhibits of antiques and expanded sections for artists and craftspeople. Featured will be a bigger and better petting zoo, buckboard rides for children, hot-air balloon rides, and more games, including an egg hunt for children up to 5 years old, marble races and the annual wooden-car derby.

Groups interested in sponsoring an activity may contact Barbara Griswold at 466-3967. Needed are donors of prizes for activities ranging from an egg hunt, a marble race and a bake-off, to country games like the three-legged race, pie-eating contest and balloon toss.

Advertisers are sought for the Fair Guidebook, to be produced as an almanac of things to do and places to visit in the area through the seasons. Volunteers are needed to set up and man booths and to clean up.

Exhibitors are needed for Antique Row: contact Penny Pypcznski of Your Aunt's Attic Antiques, 882-4657, Artist's Alley: Barb Griswold, 466-3967; Crafts Market: Barb Griswold; Flea Market: Carol Pfister, 466-9078.

Participants are sought for Bake-Off: contact Linda Castoro at 466-9147; Wooden Car Derby: Bob Milwicz, 466-3443. Car kits are on sale at the Hopewell Pharmacy, Karen's at Brookside, Vincenzo's Pizzeria, and the Hopewell Public Library.

From Teenage Competitors to Elderly Exercisers Princeton Residents Fill Community Park Pool

From dawn to dark, Memorial Day weekend to Labor Day, Community Park Pool is the busiest place in town.

Young and old, long distance lap swimmers and those for whom a corner dip is sufficient, agile divers practicing for the next competition and those who want to loosen stiffened joints in the weight-relieving buoyancy of water — all have their time and place. Community Park Pool, which opened in the summer of 1967 after years of controversy, debate and persistent effort on the part of interested citizens, has been more successful as a community facility than even its most ardent supporters would have dreamed at the time.

According to R. Donald Barr, recreation director, the CP pool was the first 50-meter outdoor pool in the country with a deck level filtration system. Instead of a narrow gutter around the top of the pool walls in which displaced water is collected to be filtered, there are 18-inch-wide slotted tiles rimming the entire pool at the same level as the water and the surrounding concrete apron. Water that is displaced by people and activity in the pool flows over a narrow concrete lip through the slots into a deep trench and then through the filtering system.

In pools with recessed gutters excess water slaps up against the wall and rebounds back into the pool, creating turbulence. The narrowness of the gutter makes for limited surging capacity, as Mr. Barr explains it, whereas surging capacity is unlimited in a deck level pool. The result is a cleaner pool, and swimmers record their best times in the smoother water.

Public Swimming. In addition to the 50-meter (164-feet five inches long) pool, which is 60 feet wide and 3½ to 5 feet deep, the Community Park pool complex includes a separate diving well 9- to 21-feet deep with 2-meter diving boards and one 3-meter board, and a 1200-square-foot shallow pool (9 to 30 inches) that is popular with toddlers and their families. When the pool complex opened 22 years ago, the primary focus was on family and individual swimming with some swimming and diving lessons also available.

Over the years a host of special programs have developed which are scheduled in the morning hours when the general public is less apt to turn out in great numbers. Public swimming takes place every day from noon to 8 p.m. and on weekends begins an hour earlier, at 11 a.m.

Jack Roberts, assistant recreation director, whose biggest area of responsibility is the pool, estimates that there are about 80,000 public session admissions during a season. There are about 3,500 season ticket holders and 400 to 500 general admission tickets.

"We think that the season ticket holders are coming to the pool more often," Mr. Roberts says. He attributes that to the greater emphasis today on fitness and lap swimming as a good aerobic workout and says the Recreation Department is doing some actual counting this year to see if this is so.

mers are a persistent group," he adds. "I get calls in the pouring rain: 'why isn't the pool open?' We're quite flexible, and we try to cater to the lap swimmers, but if there is lightning or thunder, and the rain is heavy, we're closed. If it is only rainly lightly and it's warm enough so that I think the staff won't get pneumonia, we're open."

A typical Community Park pool day begins at dawn, when the Princeton Area Masters arrive at 5:45 for their workout between 6 and 7:30 a.m. Founded some 15 years ago by Tink Bolster who continues to organize it, this is an independent program designed for year-round physical fitness and training for adult competitive swimmers age 25 and up. They use Dillon pool at the University at the same early hours during the winter months.

The program is presently at capacity. The 50 or 60 members range from graduate students and University personnel to townspeople and strong older swimmers, men and women. They are assigned lanes according to their swimming times, with three lanes for lap swimmers and five for those training for competitive events. The Recreatinn Department refunds $900 of the monthly fees collected by PAM for its own expenses, but the rest of the money is used to support the Department's competitive swimming and diving program fnr youth — to buy kick-boards or t-shirts for the CP team.

As the Masters head to the locker rooms at 7:30, younger area competitive swimmers arrive for what is called the long course workout. College swimmers living or working in the area who need a 50-meter pool in which to continue training during the summer and teenagers who belong to area swim teams use the two hours between 7:30 and 9:30 a.m. for daily workouts. The Community Park pool coaching staff develops workout formats depending on the swimmers needs. The program continues to mid-August, and there is an additional long course workout available on Wednesday evenings from 7 to 8:30.

Youth Teams. Daily practice sessions for the Community Park swimming and diving teams are next on the schedule. This is a thriving program for youngsters age 6 to 17 which encourages "relaxed competition," as the parent handbook puts it. Although individual success and enjoyment is what is emphasized, the CP team has for three years been top contenders in the A division of the Princeton Area Swimming and Diving Association (PASDA), which is made up of 22 area clubs.

The season for these young swimmers and divers is six weeks long and intense. Afternoon workouts begin before school ends for the year and give way to morning practices from 9 to 10:30 for divers, 9:30 to 10:45 for swimmers. Dual swimming and diving meets are held twice a week with one of the six or seven teams in the same division of PASDA.

The coaches make special efforts to use every team member at a meet regardless of ability, even to the point of having extra mini-heats. Parents attend an officials clinic early in the season to become famil-

Nighttime Construction Halted, Thanks to Mayor

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The residents of the areas on both sides of Bayard Lane in Princeton Township wish to extend their thanks to Mayor Phyllis Marchand for her prompt and efficient assistance with the problem we faced recently — all-night construction along Bayard Lane. PSE&G is installing a gas line from Mountain Avenue to Nassau Street, and because Bayard Lane is a State road, it was determined that all construction was to take place from 10 p.m. until 6 a.m. The noise generated by enormous construction machinery, the continual beeping of equipment backing up and the strong lights was overwhelming!

The residents of the lower part of Bayard Lane and connecting streets had little or no sleep for the first two nights of this activity. The indignant residents found it impossible to believe that the State would consider the traffic on Rt. 206 to be a much higher priority than the health/well-being of the neighborhood. Calls to Mayor Marchand resulted in her obtaining a stop-work order for this nighttime insanity on Township property — insuring relief for a weary neighborhood. Conversations with the officials of Princeton Borough were not productive.

We appreciate Phyllis Marchand's concern for her constituency. She was there when we needed her and came to our assistance. The construction work along Bayard Lane in the Township will be completed during daylight hours — we will be happy to drive out of our way in order to preserve our sleeping hours. Do the Borough residents realize that this is at least a 30-day project — scheduled for five out of seven nights each week until the project is complete?

Borough residents along Bayard Lane (and those unfortunate Township residents within earshot) will continue to spend nights listening to construction equipment, jackhammers and men calling to one another — only to have to arise early in the morning to go to work!

Traffic in this community is a problem, so what is one more street torn up? Diverting traffic is inconvenient but work during the non-peak hours and on weekends, if necessary, can be as productive as the present schedule. We ask the Borough officials to consider the residents of this area and issue a stop-work order for these night hours. The construction work can be completed with an imaginative traffic solution worked out with PSE&G.

Thank you, Phyllis, for your help. We strongly urge a similar solution for the inconvenience being caused on the Borough side.

Light Flashers, Consider: What Are You Doing?

To the Editor of Town Topics:

If you witnessed a person breaking the law, or about to break the law, would your first reaction be to aid the perpetrator? I would assume that most people would indignantly answer 'no!' And yet there seems to be an increasing number of otherwise responsible drivers who feel its ever so clever to flash their car lights to warn oncoming motorists that there is a speed trap in the vicinity.

The results are momentary; once the patrol car is past everyone speeds up again. One must wonder if the "light flashers" ever considered that a posted speed limit has been determined as the safest top speed for that given road; and in warning speeders they may well be endangering themselves and others.

I marvel that the "light flashers" have the wisdom and insight to know that the speeder they warn is just speeding because of a tight schedule, or a momentary lack of judgment, and, although exceeding the speed limit, the oncoming motorist is in complete control of the vehicle. Do the "light flashers" ever consider that the speeder might have had a few drinks, or worse? Or consider that the person behind the wheel might be a chronic speeder, arrogant enough to have developed a false sense of invincibility? Personally, that isn't the driver I care to meet coming around the next curve.

Perhaps a ticket, a fine, points on a license, even a name printed in the newspaper, might make more of an impression. Could it be that those who flash their lights feel somehow rewarded by the thought that they have outsmarted the police? I've always considered the police there to help, not hinder; and in the long run perhaps the only people the "light flashers" have outsmarted are themselves.

Buyers Should Beware Of Water-Saver Toilets

To the Editor, Town Topics:

Now that toilets are a proper subject of public discussion, I should like to add to Elizabeth G.C. Menzie's delightful letter on the subject (TOWN TOPICS, July 19).

Our house has two toilets of undetermined age and one Kohler Water-Saver installed in 1983. Despite the best efforts of the plumber, the so-called water-saver requires three or four flushes to do what the others do with one flush. We call it the water-waster and use it as little as possible.

All water-savers are not created equal, and so much for the Kohler.

Caveat emptor!

MarketFair Parking Lot Needs More Security

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am writing in reference to my car stereo being stolen during lunch hour at The MarketFair on Rte. 1 on June 26 between 12:40 p.m. and 1:40 p.m. as it was parked in one of the lots close to the building.

It is my understanding that the MarketFair has had quite a history of parking lot crimes for a young facility, including the abduction of automobiles. I had no idea that it was so serious that I had to worry about my car and stereo in broad daylight at one of the busiest times of the day, lunchtime.

Upon discovering my stereo was gone, I could not find a single security officer outside or inside the shopping center and finally had to call from a store. It was evident, after mall personnel tracked down an officer, that they were quite busy handling the two other automobiles that had been violated in a matter of five minutes.

Perhaps the answer is the facility needs more security personnel on duty patrolling the parking areas. Mall personnel need to concern itself with serving the public to insure the success of the facility by protecting those who patronize it.

I often go to the MarketFair at lunchtime, along with many of my co-workers, out of convenience. I can assure you that many of us are becoming increasingly aware of these incidents and are thinking twice before heading to MarketFair for lunch.

I have chosen to live and work in this flourishing community and so have many others, and it is expensive. Perhaps before long places such as MarketFair, which do not hesitate to charge top dollar for their goods, will make that extra effort so that people can park with confidence outside their doors and spend money in their facilities.

For now, those parking lots are targets for those who like things for free while we work hard and carry with us a false sense of security. Please be aware, until the MarketFair addresses this issue, no car is safe.

Of course, you can park in Princeton Borough where you may think your car is safer. However another form of

Boy's Letter on Violence Dismays and Disappoints

To the Editor of Town Topics:

It was with great dismay and disappointment that I read the letter of a ten year old boy, living in the West Bank, to his aunt published by the "Committee for Freedom of Education". (July 12 issue) As a long-time subscriber to TOWN TOPICS, I always admired your reporting for its honest presentation of both sides of issues and for its humanitarian efforts on part of the community at large.

Unfortunately, children suffer whenever they are used as shields for adult hatred and violence. The schools in the West Bank are hot-beds of terrorism. Young children are taught to hate Israel and to consider all Jews as their enemies. They are encouraged to throw stones and are told that to be heroes they must commit acts of terror against Israeli citizens. They are then egged on by their peers.

What would we do if our schools became breeding grounds for anti-government activity? (Incidents of kids being used to feign injury enabling adults to rob civilians were reported in last week's news, to the added annoyance of New Yorkers.)

Looking at the history of terrorism in the Middle East, we see the bombing of the American Embassy in Beirut, April, 1983, the suicide attack on Marine headquarters in October 1983, in which 241 servicemen were killed. We remember the suicide attack of a T.W.A. jetliner on the way to Beirut, during which an American seaman on board was brutally murdered (his body dumped from the plane like a bag of garbage.)

We recall, with great sadness the Achille-Lauro hijacking and murder of the wheelchair-bound Jew, Leon Klinghoffer and the recent bombing of a civilian bus on a Tel Aviv-Jerusalem road just last week. I can go on and on, but I am forced to stop and ask, "Are the Palestinians interested in pursuing peaceful negotiations or only in stone-throwing and bombings?"

Is TOWN TOPICS, a paper which a few weeks ago condemned the senseless murder of a virtuous resident, supportive of a people who have made the murder of innocents their trademark?

I only hope that children will stop being used as pawns for violence, and that Israel's efforts to negotiate will be fruitful. May the beauty and dignity of the past transcend the hatred and bombings, allowing peace to prevail in the Middle East.

Sister Cities Committee Grateful for Fiesta Help

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Thanks to all those members of the Princeton community who helped make our Salsa Fiesta last Wednesday a gala evening by contributing their time, efforts and good will. Even the weather cooperated so that we could dance under a full moon to mark the tenth anniversary of Nicaraguan independence and send our greetings across the miles to Princeton delegates enjoying the celebration in Managua and to residents of our Sister City in Granada.

Special thanks and appreciation are due to TOWN TOPICS for their excellent publicity for this event, to the Princeton Borough Police for their assistance, to the Arts Council of Princeton for use of the parking lot and building, to Mike Jones who donated his deejay talents and wonderful collection of reggae music, to Ruth Alegria of Mexican Village II for the refreshments, and to Tempting Tiger and the American Diner for help with ticket sales and all the local merchants who displayed our posters.

We enjoyed the opportunity to bring out of doors dancing to Princeton and hope this is just the beginning of such future events.

iar with correct and incorrect strokes and dives and then take turns officiating at meets. There are usually informal get-togethers afterward at a nearby ice cream parlor or pizza place.

Toward the end of the season, there is a big family picnic with sack races, egg toss and funny awards. Finally, there are the championships in which every swimmer and diver in the 22 PASDA clubs may participate. Because of the numbers involved, there are two days of diving and three days of swimming at indoor pools in the area.

The CP team is supported by an active committee of parents who put in long hours carpooling, telephoning and officiating. The team members also work hard, and there are stories of kids falling asleep at the dinner table after a particularly strenuous day. But there is also a cohesive team spirit that is fostered by the team shirts and swim suits and the social events.

Seniors' Turn. Senior lap swimmers of the non-competitive variety are next on the Community Park pool schedule. Their time slot is from 10 to noon. Mr. Roberts reports that from 20 to 30 older season ticket holders turn out regularly during this comparatively calm period in the pool day.

A part of that time, from 11 to noon, and a corner of the pool are reserved for what is called Senior Dip - an opportunity to sit or stand in the water and just enjoy it. Also during that hour, autistic and handicapped children from the Mercer County Special Services School District held at Johnson Park School come to the pool. Some sit and splash and are amazed, others are able to try floating or swimming under water.

Meanwhile, in another part of the pool and in the diving well, regular swimming and diving lessons take place from 10:30 to 12:15 for ages 4 to 15. On Monday, Wednesday and Friday lessons are for young people from the general public; Tuesdays and Thursdays they are for campers in the Recreation Department's Summer Day Camp. "We're starting to reach 200 or 300 kids," is Mr. Roberts' comment about the instructional program.

AN EXCITING MEET: This was the start of the boys 14 and under backstroke event against Hamilton in the Community Park pool last week. Hamilton won, but only by inches in the final relay event in which the CP swim team had an age disadvantage. The final score was 167-172. The CP team has a 3-4 record for the season. Janet Jellife is the head coach.

The lessons are divided into two four-week sessions for the general public, and two six-week sessions for campers who request it. Evaluations are held before each session, so that each child can be placed to the best advantage. The cost is $15 per session for campers as well as non-campers. Whether they have been swimming the previous hour or not, the entire day camp descends on the pool each day at 12:15 for a swim and to eat their box lunches.

Weekend Programs. On Saturday and Sunday mornings, before the pool is open to the public and in place of the competitive workouts and instructional programs, there are several special programs. Splashercise, or water aerobics, is an exercise program in the water for seniors and handicapped Princeton residents and season ticket holders that is sponsored on Saturdays from 10 to 11 by the Recreation Department.

A special swimming program for the disabled or handicapped is available on Sundays from 10 to 11, and on Monday and Friday evenings from 5:30 to 7. People who are unable to use the steps can use a hydraulic lift, allowing them to sit in the water and move their arms. Sometimes there are volunteers or a physical therapist from Merwick on hand to give guidance, but participants are encouraged to bring a relative, friend or other helper to assist with getting in and out, drying and dressing.

Mr. Roberts reports that once in the water some of the participants are able to swim laps. He says that perhaps six or eight people take advantage of the opportunity, and he would like to search out and bring in more people for whom it could be helpful, perhaps through physician referrals. In its buoyancy, water removes the burden of body weight and makes movement easier for stroke victims and those who have arthritis, among others.

Another weekend morning program is the scuba diving class run by Princeton Aqua Sports 8 to noon on Saturdays. But weekends, especially when the weather is hot, are when the general public comes to the pool in droves. Families bring picnics and set them up on tables in the shade, or spread towels and blankets on the grass embankment.

Major Asset. To Mr. Barr, the amount of grass is one thing that sets Princeton's pool complex apart from others in the state. "We looked at studies [before the pool was built] of how much time people spent in the water as opposed to out of the water. We wanted to create a community facility in which people would want to spend time reading or being with friends.

"We didn't want people to come, jump in, and get out and feel that was it. Fortunately the pool complex is large enough to accomplish what we wanted." Mr. Barr came here as Princeton's first recreation director in early 1965, while the plans for the pool were still being worked out.

The Community Park pool is also a safe pool because of its shallowness — deep enough (3½ feet) at the shallow end for a flip turn but not too deep at the other end for most children to stand. Separating the diving functions from the main pool also adds to the safety factor. Mr. Barr says that statistics show that there are more injuries if swimming and diving are in one pool.

The diving well was made deep enough so that a 10-meter diving platform could be accommodated, but it was decided that would have to come from private contributions. The funds never materialized, however. Mr. Barr is also pleased with the black-tiled lanes in both directions at the far end of the main pool which make it possible to hold a swimming meet at one end without curtailing public swimming at the other; both go on simultaneoulsy.

He says that the Community Park pool cost $432,826 when it was built, and that two years years later Scarsdale paid more than $1 million for a similar deck level pool complex. The pool generated $181,000 in revenue last year, more than half the Department's total budget which runs to $301,000.

The staff includes eight lifeguards who work different shifts and also double as swimming/diving teachers. Lifeguards are often recruited from the competitive youth swim program to take the lifesaving course, which the Recreation Department also holds at the pool, and which is a pre-requisite to becoming a lifeguard. The staff also includes two people in the front office during public swimming sessions and a pool manager.

Season Too Short. For those whose social and recreational lives revolve around the Community Park pool in summer, Labor Day comes much too soon. Talk of putting a bubble over the main pool to make it useful year-round resurfaces annually. Mr. Roberts says the costs of a bubble would be prohibitive, but he is hopeful that when the University's new 50-meter pool is completed there might be more time available to the community either in the new pool or at Dillon pool.

Meanwhile Labor Day is still several weeks away, the wet rainy weather may have given way to days that are sunnier and hotter, and there is nothing quite like swimming outdoors. The Princeton community is fortunate in its Community Park pool, and it's there for all to enjoy.

OBITUARIES

Ann R. Robinson McCleery, 64, of Edgerstoune Road, died July 18 at Princeton Medical Center after a brief illness.

Mrs. McCleery was born in Irvington-on-Hudson, N.Y., and grew up there and in her mother's family home in Natchez, Miss. She was a graduate of the Masters School in Dobbs Ferry, N.Y. After her marriage in 1950 to William McCleery, a playwright and editor, she lived in Peterborough, N.H., before moving with him to Princeton in 1958.

She received a degree from Trenton State College which permitted her to teach remedial reading at Stuart Country Day School and Princeton Day School. She later became a real estate agent with Firestone Realtors.

Mrs. McCleery was a member of Trinity Church and the Present Day Club.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by a son, Samuel McCleery of Pennington; a stepson, Michael McCleery of New Haven, Conn.; five step-grandchildren; and a sister, Mrs. Weymouth Kirkland of Winnetka, Ill.

A memorial service will be held Saturday, September 9, at 2 at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street, the Rev. Jean R. Smith, interim rector, officiating. In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to the American Diabetes Association, 1660 Duke Street, Alexandria, Va. 22314.

Arrangements were under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Valentine Hargmann, one of the United States' most penetrating thinkers in the field of mathematical physics and assistant to Albert Einstein, died July 21 of heart failure at the Princeton Medical Center. He was professor emeritus of mathematical physics at Princeton University.

Born in Berlin, Germany, Prof. Bargmann studied at the University of Berlin. When Hitler rose to power, he moved to Zurich, where he completed studies for his doctorate at the University of Zurich in 1936. He escaped to the United States in 1937, two days before the expiration of his German passport.

For the next six years he was affiliated with the Institute for Advanced Study, first as a member and then from 1940 to 1943 as Einstein's assistant.

In 1943 Bargmann began a collaboration with John von Neumann, initially on war-related research and then on von Neumann's computer-prototype project at the Institute for Advanced Study, where Prof. Bargmann worked on inversion of matrices of large dimension.

From 1941 on, he taught graduate courses at Princeton University. In 1946 he received a faculty appointment there as visiting lecturer in mathematics. After a semester as associate professor of mathematics at the University of Pittsburgh, he rejoined the Princeton faculty as associate professor of mathematical physics in 1948. Promoted to full professor in 1957, he retired from the active faculty in 1976.

When he retired, his colleagues dedicated to him a Festshrift, Studies in Mathematical Physics: Essays in Honor of Valentine Bargmann. In its introduction the editors state that Prof. Bargmann's papers were not numerous by today's standards of productivity, but that many of them launched whole areas for investigation by subsequent mathematical physicists.

A member of the National Academy of Sciences, he was a recipient of both the Wigner (1979) and Max Plank (1988) medals for contributions to group theory in quantum physics.

Prof. Bargmann's wife, Sonja, died last October.

The Princeton University Physics Department will hold a meeting of remembrance in September.

Sister Mary Cyril Murray, M.S.C., 75, of Our Lady of Princeton, died July 23 at Princeton Nursing Home.

Born in Ireland, Sister Cyril entered the novitiate of Marianites of Holy Cross in France in 1933. She was a registered nurse who received her degree from St. Catherine's Hospital School of Nursing in New York City and was on the nursing staff of French Hospital in New York City for many years.

Surviving are two brothers in Ireland, and several nieces, nephews and cousins.

Mass of Christian Burial was scheduled to be celebrated this Wednesday, July 26, at 3 at Our Lady of Princeton, The Great Road. Burial will follow in the cemetery at Our Lady of Princeton. Friends may call at the chapel from 1 until time of the mass.

Arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Carnl P. Fonger, 65, of Guyot Avenue, died July 24 at home. She had lived in Princeton for 36 years.

Born in Chicago, Ill., Mrs. Fonger attended the University of Illinois. She was a member of All Saints' Church and the church Altar Guild. She also belonged to Cercle Francais and Delta Gamma Sorority.

Mrs. Sibert was a member of Princeton Baptist Church at Penns Neck.

Wife of the late Raymond L. Sibert, she is survived by three sons, Stanley L. of West Windsor, Robert C. Sr. of Kingston and Raymond Jr. of Allentown; a sister, Hilda Amalfitano of Rocky Hill; and six grandchildren.

Master Plan

• changing the commercial B-1 zoning on lower Witherspoon Street to residential;

• creating a new community service zone which would include the YM-YWCA, Merwick and Dorothea House;

• changing the Service Business District on Nassau Street to Neighborhood Business, and studying this congested area to improve traffic circulation, parking and pedestrian safety;

• re-examining the POR (professional office/residential) district along Harrison Street in terms of possibly including additional areas, and amending the standards to assure that residential units are retained;

• studying whether or not to require an affordable housing component of all residential developments of 20 units or more;

• studying the ordinances pertaining to housing in the downtown and Witherspoon area to see whether there should be incentives for commercial buildings to include residential units, including affordable units;

• re-examining the bikeway/sidewalk plan to make sure that all approaches to schools and active recreation areas have six-foot-wide bikeways;

• study the possibility of an ordinance that would limit deliveries to the downtown by large trucks to low traffic periods.

More Historic Listings? The board has also set itself the task of studying whether or not to add to the existing historic sites and districts from a list recommended by the Township Historic Sites Commission.

Before voting on the Master Plan, the Planning Board also reviewed several paragraphs drafted by Mr. Sander and Mr. O'Neill on establishing priorities for land use.

The priorities include affordable housing, educational needs, open space, recreation — both active and passive — historic preservation, and the retention of Princeton's small town atmosphere.

The statement concludes by recommending to the two municipalities "that they take steps now to acquire the land and facilities needed to implement the Princeton community's goals." The board voted to omit a recommendation that a referendum be held to assess community support for a bond issue for the purchase of land and facilities Princeton needs for its future development.

McCarter Stages Powerful & Funny Production Of James McLure's Black Comedy, "Pvt. Wars"

CHECKMATE? Two hospitalized Vietnam veterans, Gately (l.) played by Kevin Chamberlin and Natwick, (William Richert) try to regain control of their lives in "Pvt. Wars" now playing at McCarter Theater.

"If people'd all fight their own private wars, everything would be OK," laments Gately, a G.I. recovering from wounds both physical and psychological, "but people go sticking their noses into other people's wars."

In McCarter Theatre's current production of James McLure's dark comedy Pvt. Wars, the subjects range from sex and death to Hiawatha and Johnny Carson, and the three characters find themselves asking the most essential questions about their own lives and the most basic questions of our human existence.

Their wars can never be won, nor can they long remain private, as the three Vietnam veterans come to realize their interdependence, and their mutual affection, despite conflicts that at times become fierce. "I don't want to talk about it," a recurrent motif stated at different times by all of the characters, means just the opposite.

Set in a veterans' hospital in the 1970's, Pvt. Wars is a compassionate look at three fascinatingly different, often humorous individuals. It is a play about the Vietnam War and its effects. And it is a play about combatting the ravages, the frustrations, the loneliness and the terror of life.

Expanded from one act to two since its 1977 Broadway production, Pvt. Wars never entirely leaves the realm of comedy, but it does contain strong, sometimes shocking, subject matter and some off-color language.

News of the THEATRES

James McLure, whose long-standing relationship with McCarter has included productions of the one-acts Lone Star and Laundry and Bourbon (1979), the premiere of The Day They Shot John Lennon (1980) and Napoleon Nightdreams (1987), displays here his superb comedic talent, as well as an ear for lively, realistic dialogue and an impressive sensitivity in the creation of the three-dimensional, sympathetic characters. In the face of such rich gifts, it might be quibbling to mention that the humor is uneven and that the lengthened script might now need a bit of pruning.

Powerful Production. This McCarter production, which marked the European debut of the expanded Pvt. Wars when the company presented it in Oslo, Norway, this past spring, is a powerful and humorous one under the direction of Nagie Jackson.

Two of the three actors are thoroughly convincing, delivering performances that make the audience believe unquestioningly in their reality as struggling, suffering patients, eager and terrified to get out and face the world. The third, though also a competent and colorful performer, seems to be a different, less realistic, more melodramatic player than his colleagues.

Kevin Chamberlin masterfully portrays the simple, earnest, purposeful Gately, the most winning and most psychologically healthy character of the three. Ceaselessly at work on the hopeless task (the other characters repeatedly steal the needed parts) of putting together a radio, Gately sees his mission in terms of "keeping the incoming parts ahead of the outgoing parts." If he can only get the radio to work, we know that he will have the necessary confidence in himself to face the world. Mr. Chamberlin makes us love and laugh at this slow-moving country boy from the South.

One of the funniest scenes I have seen on stage in recent memory involves Gately and Silvio, the would-be macho Italian played by Robin Tate, in a lesson on picking up girls. Silvio insists that the plump, balding Gately improvise the role of an ugly Catholic girl at a singles bar while he (Silvio) demonstrates the proper romantic approach. Two savvy actors, two vividly contrasting characters and some of the wittiest dialogue Mr. McLure ever wrote make the scene a gem.

Mr. Tate creates a highly charged and idiosyncratic Silvio, complete with earring, gold chains around his neck, colorful underwear, galloping sexual imagination including an appointment book with scheduled times to flash the nurses, and a volatile — at times dangerous and cruel — personality disorder.

William Richert as Natwick, the repressed, expensively educated, condescending Long Islander, completes the diverse trio. The character and his problems come across, but unfortunately Natwick, in a performance that would be more appropriate for musical comedy than for this realistic tragicomedy, appears here in only two dimensions as a stylized stereotype. Indeed Mr. McLure's Natwick is full of poses and affectations, but Mr. Richert's performance barely scratches the surface of the real complexity that lies beneath. We cannot believe or care about this character in the way we are inevitably drawn to believe and care about his two comrades.

Fine Comic Touch. Mr. Jackson, McCarter artistic director, has staged this play with subtlety, skill and his usual fine comic touch. The multiple scenes of the first act flow smoothly and rapidly, with blackouts and music between to signify the passage of time, while the fewer scenes of the second act build the intensity of the individuals' private wars and their developing relationships.

The simplicity of the set — three wooden chairs, a table, an easy chair and a footrest — and the placement of the audience on the stage in intimate proximity to the actors are wise and highly effective choices.

In his program notes Mr. Jackson describes the play as "a microcosm which, in the classical mode of good theater, reflects the macrocosm of a society looking to be healed." The poignancy and humor of this production cannot help but enlist the audience's interest and sympathy in this quest for healing.

Pvt. Wars will play at McCarter this Thursday through Sunday — just four more performances. For reservations and further information call 683-8000.

'The King and I' Readied For Open Air Theatre

The Artists Showcase Theatre of Trenton will present The King and I as the opening musical for the abbreviated summer season in the Open Air Theatre in Washington Crossing Park

Mary Liz Ivins

The King and I will open Thursday, August 3, at 8 and run that weekend and from Wednesday through Saturday, August 9 through 12. All performances are at 8.

The King of Siam will be played by Robert Parrish, artistic director of the Trenton State College Opera Workshop where he began singing opera under Byron Steele, artistic director of Artists Showcase. Mr. Parrish has played the King of Siam in numerous performances of The King and I and has sung many other operatic roles and musical comedy leads.

The part of Anna will be played by Mary Liz Ivins, who has sung the role previously with Mr. Parrish and also appeared with him in The Sound of Music. Ms. Ivins has also appeared with the Trenton Civic Opera in The Student Prince and The Merry Widow. Other members of the cast include Lydia Ricci Kugler as Tuptim, Deirdre Hindley as Lady Thiang, William Agress as the Kralahome, and William Ulmer as Sir Edward.

The story is based on a true segment in the history of Siam (now Thailand) when the King of Siam, who was well-read and intelligent, wanted to bring the best of western culture to his country. He hired an English woman to come to Siam to teach his wives and children.

Tickets are $5.50 on Wednesday and Thursday and $6.50 on Friday and Saturday. Children's tickets are half-price. Tickets are available at the box office after 4 on the day of the performance. For further information call 737-2980.

Two Harrowing Stories On Kresge Movie Screen

Dead Ringers will be on screen Friday through Sunday, July 30, as part of McCarter Theatre's Summer Cinema at Kresge Auditorium. The co-feature will be David Mamet's House of Games.

Directed by David Cronenberg, Dead Ringers is based on the novel Twins, which in turn was based on the case history of the Marcus brothers, a pair of respected gynecologists who were found dead in their Manhattan apartment in 1975. The movie's identical twins, Elliott and Jeremy Mantle (both played by Jeremy Irons) are Toronto doctors with a reputation for radical technique and comforting bedside manner, who are complementary halves of one identity: body and mind, curiosity and compassion, sex and guilt.

Into their clinic to upset this delicate balance comes Genevieve Bujold, a famous actress with a healthy sexual appetite and a passion to bear a child. From these threads Cronenberg has spun a startling tale of physical and psychic disintegration, centering on the twins' hopeless interdependence, and playing havoc with the viewer's grip on reality. Irons' double performance is a schizophrenic tour de force, and the film's ghoulishness is kept in check even as the story spirals downward into the twins' drug addiction, physical squalor, and finally, violence.

David Mamet's House of Games tells the story of a superstar psychiatrist (Lindsay Crouse) who tries to help a young patient, a suicidal, compulsive gambler, and finds herself caught up in an underworld of con men headed by Joe Mantegna. Mamet's screenplay retains the hustler's poetry of his best stage work (Americon Buffolo, Glengorry Glen Ross, Speed the Plow) with an intricate plot that twists, turns and doubles back on itself.

The double features for Tuesday through Thursday, August 1 through 3, are films about our national pastime: baseball.

The first film, Bull Durham, was a critical and box office triumph for first-time writer-director Ron Shelton. The film gives us three characters who keep each other off balance with a steady stream of curves, fastballs, change-ups and romantic sliders. Susan Sarandon is Annie Savoy who, each season, selects the most promising prospect from her local minor league team, the Durham Bulls, as her lover for the season.

This year, her eye has fallen upon Calvin "Nuke" Laloosh (Tim Robbins), a southpaw with a million-dollar arm and a five-cent brain. Young and flaky, Nuke needs maturing, so the Bulls call in the veteran catcher Crash Davis (Kevin Costner) to season him. What Crash and Annie both know is that he is the only man on the team who could appreciate such a woman — and the sensual tension between the two is as palpable as the Southern humidity.

The co-feature will be John Sayles Eight Men Out, the story of the 1919 Chicago White Sox, who conspired with gamblers to throw the World Series to the Cincinnati Reds — the infamous "Black Sox Scandal." Sayles sees the players not as cheaters, but as victims — aone-too-bright boys caught between their love of the game and their anger towards team owner Charlie Comisky, who shamelessly underpays them.

This makes it easier for first baseman Chick Gandil to persuade seven of his teammates to bite the poisoned apple offered by New York crime czar Arnold Rothstein. Cheated by the swindlers, outmaneuvered by Rothstein, and manipulated by league officials who were anxious to restore public confidence in the game, all eight were acquitted in court, but banned from pro baseball for life.

Eileen B. Saums, Allied Member, A.S.I.D. speaks on MAKE YOUR HOME ONE-IN-A-BILLION.

There's nobody else in the world exactly like you — and, therefore, no other home should be like yours.

Although there's often not much that's practical to do to the outside of a home if it looks the same as a lot of other houses — you certainly can decorate the interior individually and distinctively, and thereby have the inside of your home different from everybody else's.

Now, no one should decorate "differently" just to be different. But you should express your individuality — and decorate for the needs and the desires of you and your family.

If you do that, you'll have a "one-in-a-billion home", and one that genuinely speaks for you, and serves you.

Today, it's easier than ever to assemble the furniture you want and like. There's now more freedom of choice than ever before, and mixtures of furnishings are not only acceptable but desirable, so you can add just the things you like.

With that in mind, we're here to help you by offering you a varied selection, different ideas, and the encouragement to furnish your home the way you want it, and the way your family wants it. We're here to help you achieve that goal. Stop in.

The musical Chicago will open Friday at the Off-Broadstreet Theatre in Hopewell for a six-weekend run.

Chicago tells the story of Roxie Hart in terms of a vaudeville show. It is the story of a married chorus girl who murders her lover and tries to capitalize on pre-trial publicity to get acquitted and further her stage career. The role of Roxie will be portrayed by Laura Jackson.

———

Sharon Alexander will play Velma Kelly who, until Roxie comes on the scene, has been the hottest mankiller in town. Roger-john Leach is cast as the fast-talking lawyer who helps pretty girls get away with murder.

Others in the cast are Kim Bantle-Taylor as the larcenous jail matron, Rod Sterling as a sad-sack husband and Wilamena Grigg as a gullible sob sister. The bevy of beauteous slayers who share Roxie Hart's jail will be performed by Ilene Bergelson, Victoria Lee, Laura Agin, Lisa Needham and Lori van Ingen. Rounding out the cast are Joe Stanton, Martin A. Hardgrove, Richard Chibbaro and Walter Cupit.

Final Presentations Set By Creative Theatre

Creative Theatre's summer classes, Drama Workshop and Theatre Workshop, will share their final presentations this week.

The children's theatre company offers an intensive four-week summer program for 4- to 6-year-olds, 7- to 11-year-olds, and 12- to 15-year-olds. Creative Theatre's philosophy of process-oriented creative dramatics paves the way for more than a half dozen original productions by students each year, two of which take place the last week in July.

This summer, the 7- to 11-year-old class, Drama Workshop, has been creating an adaptation of Chris Van Allsburg's Jumonji. In Van Allsburg's story, what begins as a board game played by two children evolves into a jungle adventure. In Creative Theatre's version, six children play "Jumanji" and are taken backward in time, into outer space, under water, into a fantasy world, then to the jungle. The presentation will take place Thursday at 3 at the Arts Council building.

The Theatre Workshop for 12- to 15-year-olds, began with a familiar setting, The Mall. Through improvisation, participants developed stores, employees, patrons and various characters appropriate to a shopping mall. They developed a plot line with situations that expand the concept and take it into new dimensions. This performance will be on Friday at 2 and 7, also in the Arts Council building.

Performances are free of charge, but a reservation is necessary. For further information call Jean Prall at Creative Theatre 924-3489.

Fables and Fairy Tales Performed Free in Park

Teddy Bear Productions will perform a dinosaur story as participation theater on Thursday at 10 a.m. in the South Brunswick Community Center gym, Woodlot Park, West New Road, Kendall Park. There is no fee, but reservations are required. Call (201) 297-4433 weekdays from 8:30 to 4:30 for reservations and information.

The production is a part of the Center Stage summer children's performances sponsored by the South Brunswick Recreation Department and Cultural Arts Commission. The final performance will be Jamie Mymit in Imagine If, in which he makes everyday things come to life. Performances last 45 to 60 minutes.

Auditions Are Scheduled By Franklin Villagers

The Franklin Villagers Barn Theatre will hold open auditions for Isn't It Romantic, a comedy by Wendy Wasserstein, on Sunday August 13, from 1 to 5 p.m. and Monday, August 14, from 7:30 to 10. Isn't It Romantic will be presented on weekends from October 6 through October 29. Auditions are by appointment and will be held at the Franklin Villagers Barn Theatre in the Franklin Township municipal complex at 475 DeMott Lane in the Somerset section of Franklin Township. Appointments may be obtained by calling the theatre at (201) 873-2710.

Director Mary McGinley, who directed the Villagers production of Noises Off last season, will be looking for a cast of four men and four women as well as incidental parts. Characters include Janie Blumberg (28), a sweet and funny young woman who is unsure of herself; Harriet Caldwell (28), an intelligent, beautiful Harvard graduate who has everything going for her but doesn't know it; Tasha Blumberg (45 to 55), Janie's mother, who has traditional values, is positive but somewhat pushy;

Also, Lillian Caldwell (45 to 55), Harriet's mother, a successful, driven executive who has led a lonely life; Marty Sterling (28 to 35), a funny intense young doctor who loves Janie, wants to get back to his Jewish roots; Paul Stewart (40), top executive, handsome and a great manipulator. Simon Blumberg (50 to 60), Janie's father, pleasant, devoted family man; and Vladimir (28 to 38), a Russian immigrant who is a cab driver.

Those who are auditioning may come prepared with a monologue or can read from the script, a copy of which will be on reserve at the Franklin Township Library adjacent to the theater.

Isn't It Romantic had a successful run Off-Broadway. Ms. Waserstein's most recent work, The Heidi Chronicles, won her both a Tony Award and the Pulitzer Prize this year.

WITTY AND POLITICAL are the adjectives applied to the British acoustic pop band called Dinner Ladies. The band, which has opened for Billy Bragg, 10,000 Maniacs and They Might be Giants, will play Thursday at 7:30 at Community Park North and Saturday from noon to 2 at Princeton Shopping Center. From left are Lorraine Bowen, Ben Davies, Annabelle Simmons and Mich Jackson.

MUSIC

London-Based Musicians In Free Concert Here

The Dinner Ladies, an acoustic foursome from London who call their music "urban folk," will perform Thursday at 7:30 in the Summer Sounds series at Community Park North. They will also play Saturday from noon to 2 at the Princeton Shopping Center. Both concerts are free and open to the public.

This group is a two-man, two-woman quartet from London who bill themselves as "The Rhythm of Workaday Britain." The members are Mick Jackson who writes the lyrics and sings, Annabelle Simmons, cello, Lorraine Bowen, piano, and Ben Davies, guitar and vocals. Using simple melodies, intelligent lyrics and acoustic instruments they intersperse their often political songs with witty banter.

Summer Sounds is sponsored by the Recreation Department and the Arts Council with a grant from the Princeton Youth Fund and Rosa's Caffe. Food is available at the concerts. In case of rain, the concert will be held indoors at the Arts Council.

On Saturday, the Princeton Shopping Center merchants invite the public to "Shop to the Sound of Pop" as the Dinner Ladies play from noon to 2. There will be sidewalk sales, demonstrations, contests and discounts on selected merchandise from 11 to 5.

Jazz Concert Planned In Mercer County Park

The Rick Fiori Trio will present a free concert at 6:45 on Saturday, at Mercer County Park, West Windsor.

This performance, which is presented in conjunction with the 4-H Fair, is part of the "Music in the Park" series presented by the Mercer County Cultural & Heritage Commission during July and August. Drummer Rick Fiori and his group have been presenting their own special blend of mellow jazz in the Mercer County area for the past several years.

The performance will be held near the ice rink. There is no reserved seating. In the event of rain, the performance will be held inside the rink.

For further information contact the Cultural & Heritage Commission weekdays at 989-6701. On the day of the concert, call Mercer County, 989-6530.

Final Chamber Concert By Waterloo Musicians

The final evening of chamber music performed by faculty artists from the Waterloo School of Music in residence at Princeton University will take place Friday at 8:30 in Richardson Auditorium.

The program wil open with the Ricercar a 6 from J.S. Bach's Musical Offering, completing the summer's performance of this monumental work in its entirety. The Ricercar a 6 will be performed in an arrangement for small orchestra by Gerard Schwarz and will be conducted by him.

Also on the program is Anton Webern's Langsamer Satz (1905), a haunting, hyper-Romantic slow movement resembling Verklarte Nacht (1899) of Arnold Schonberg; Soli IV for brass (1966) by the Mexican composer, Carlos Chavez, and music by Tcherepnin and Elliott Carter in performances by the New York Philharmonic timpanist Roland Kohloff.

The program will conclude with Schubert's trio for piano and strings in B-flat Major, D. 898. Jazz Vocalist to Sing At McCarter on Monday

Jazz vocalist and bebop diva Betty Carter will offer her repertoire of standards and originals at McCarter Theatre on Monday at 8 p.m. Her appearance will be the final offering of McCarter's "Just Jazz" series.

Ms. Carter got her first break with Lionel Hampton's big band in the late 1940's, where she scat-sang. Hampton dubbed her "Betty Bebop," and used her to lure in audiences intrigued by the new sounds.

During the mid-50's through the 60's, Ms. Carter toured with many of the big names in jazz including Miles Davis, Max Roach and Ray Charles. While on tour she did a recording with Ray Charles, the 1961 "Ray Charles and Betty Carter" album. In it are duets such as Baby, It's Cold Outside and It Takes Two to Tango.

Ticket prices are $17, $18, $19, $20 and $25. For information call 683-8000 Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Free Jazz Picnic Set To Benefit Landmark

Friends of the Benjamin Temple House will present a free jazz concert on Sunday, August 6, from 3 to 6 on the grounds of the Benjamin Temple House in Ewing Township.

Using the theme "Down on the Farm...And All That Jazz," Dominick DeFrancesco and his quintet, the Jazz Happening, will present three hours of jazz. The quintet will include and feature Tony DiNicola on drums, Dick Braytenbah on piano, Bill Lacey on trumpet and Ron Barnes on bass.

Those attending are encouraged to bring a picnic. Soft drinks will be available. The Benjamin Temple House is located at 27 Federal City Road, between Bunker Hill Road and Ewingville Road, off I-95 exit 4 in Ewing Township.

Betty Carter

The house, built around 1750, is registered as a national historic site and is an excellent example of a Colonial farmhouse. It was constructed by Benjamin Temple, the son of one of the earliest settlers of the Hopewell-Ewing area. Temple was a prosperous farmer and landowner who was a boyhood friend of John Hart, signer of the Declaration of Independence.

He was an ardent supporter of the Revolutionary cause, and along with two of his nephews, John and Nathaniel Temple, fought in the Battles of Trenton.

The Friends of the Benjamin Temple House was formed in 1977 to provide financial aid and moral support in the task of preserving and restoring this landmark. For more information call George Wilson at 921-3119.

Dinner Theatre Trip Set To New Hope by Seniors

The Senior Trip Club is sponsoring a trip to Peddler's Village Dinner Theatre in New Hope, Pa., on Thursday, August 24, to see the comedy Right Bed, Wrong Husband.

Participants will have free time for shopping in Peddler's Village and a luncheon buffet at the Cock 'N' Bull Restaurant. The cost is $34 for Trip Club members, and $37 for non-members.

The trip will be cancelled if 40 people do not register. To register, come by the Recreation Department, 380 Witherspoon Street, or call the office at 921-9480.

Change of Location

Because of a change in personnel, the concert by the Ridge String Quartet this Wednesday, July 26, will be held indoors in Richardson Auditorium. The performance begins at 8.

First violinist Krista Bennion Feeney injured her hand and is being replaced by a pianist, Stephanie Brown. The other members of the Ridge Quartet, cellist Peter Wyrick, violinist Robert Rinehard and violist Maria Lambros, will be here, but the program has been changed.

Instead of works by Beethoven, Webern and Smetana, the program will include the Piano Trio in G Major by Haydn, Sonata for Violin and Cello by Ravel, and Piano Quartet in E-flat Major by Robert Schumann.

The concert is the last in the 1989 Princeton University Summer Chamber Series which are intended to be held in the courtyard of the Graduate College and are moved indoors if the weather is inclement. This year, only one concert, the Annapolis Brass Quintet, was heard outside.

There Is No Tomorrow For Princeton Post 76

Princeton Post 76 didn't make it

On the final day of regular season play in the Mercer County American Legion League Saturday, in one of the closest Legion races in years, Post 76 was one of five teams that didn't make the playoffs. It marked the first time since 1984 that Larry Bender's club did not reach the playoffs.

———

Post 76 began the final day all even at 13-13, tied with Trenton Post 93. Hamilton Post 31, a half-game back at 12-13, had to play a double-header on the final day. All three teams were fighting for the fifth and final playoff spot.

Princeton's opponent was Hopewell Post 339, a hard-hitting club. The two teams had split their previous two meetings.

As it had in the majority of its games this summer, Post 76 grabbed the lead. It began with two runs in the first inning but had to settle for two when some over-aggressive base running resulted in the third out. In the second, two walks and an error loaded the bases. Hopewell pitcher Chris Armbruster almost pitched his way out of it when he claimed Pete Prodanov and Tim O'Connell as strike-out victims but Jim Brienza and Greg Papciak singled to make it 5-1. Once again, however, the rally ended when a Post 76 runner was caught in a run-down.

In the bottom of the second, after Hopewell had scored one run off Post 76 starter Scott Lord, the game was halted for almost half an hour when third baseman Greg Korn was struck by a vicious line drive off the bat of centerfielder Tom Clos. The ball hit the small-statured Korn flush in the eye and he dropped like a stone.

Korn was tended by Hopewell manager Gary Vogler, Bender and his parents as his stunned teammates milled around. First one police patrol car and then another drove onto the diamond before an ambulance finally arrived and took Korn to the hospital for x-rays and stitches of his swollen eye. He suffered fractures around the eye.

Before play resumed, Bender gathered his players and told them: "Take whatever they'll give you. A walk ... a single because this team can hit. Come on. It's your game. It's your season right here!"

Bender's comment about Hopewell being able to hit proved to be prophetic. Lord, who had been ineffective this season and whose only victory had come against last-place Mitchell Davis, was able to keep the Hopewell batters in check — until the fifth inning. In the fifth, the season fell apart for the visiting Princeton team.

With the bases loaded with Hopewell runners, husky DH Greg Pappas blasted a 1-1 Lord pitch over the head of Pietrinferno in right field for a three-run double. Mark Szalcyzk followed with another double to tie the score at five. After Ken Marcellus' single gave Hopewell the lead at 7-5, Carl Zentmayer followed with the coup de grace. His hard smash went under the glove of Scott Petrone at second to score the seventh and eighth runs of the inning.

Princeton got two back in the sixth but failed to score again in the seventh and final inning, making it a 9-7 final. "It just didn't happen this year," said Bender. "I know the kids are disappointed. They gave 100 percent. But when we lost six in a row, we knocked ourselves out of it."

Meanwhile, on this busy final day, Trenton bowed out when it lost 2-1 to Ewing to finish tied with Post 76 at 13-14. Hamilton, the league's defending champion, finished with a rush. It edged Mitchell Davis, 7-6, in its first game and then came back to blank a spent Hopewell team, 5-0. The twin killing enabled Hamilton to tie Bordentown Post 26 for fourth place, both finishing 14-13. The two teams will engage in a playoff to determine the fifth-place finisher.

Broad Street Park split its two games on Saturday, defeating Lawrence, 4-1, and bowing to Ewing, 4-2, to finish on top in the standings at 19-8 and capture its first Legion championship. Ewing was second at 18-9, and Hopewell, one of the surprise teams this year, was third at 17-10.

No Merriwell Finish. In past seasons, Post 76 had finished strong at the end. Entering the final week, it had five left to play and needed to win at least four. It won two and lost three. There was to be no Frank Merriwell finish.

ERRANT THROW: Post 76 first baseman Jim Brienza is unable to come up with an errant throw in Saturday's season-ending loss to Hopewell. Post 76 ended below .500 with a 13-14 record.

It began the week by losing, 3-1, to Hamilton last Monday for its fifth loss in a row. On Tuesday, Princeton suffered its sixth straight loss and second shutout of the season when it was stopped, 1-0, by Trenton, although it outhit the losers, 7-3.

Last Wednesday, Post 76 managed to stay in the hunt when it rallied for six runs in the sixth inning to overcome a 5-2 deficit and defeat Mitchell Davis, 8-5. After a walk and singles by Korn and Jason Rizzo had loaded the bases, Post 76 combined a walk, a two-run error on a bunt by Jason Atlas, an RBI single by Prodanov, another M-D error and Dan Brienza's single for its six runs. Mike Andolina got the win in relief of Jim Brienza.

Thursday's slate was washed out by rain, causing the regular season to be extended one day to Saturday.

On Friday, Post 76 stayed alive — just barely — when it edged Bordentown 3-2 with a three-run fifth inning. The game-winner was a clutch two-run double by Pietrinferno. Post 76 had tied the score at one on an error, bunt single by Korn, and Tom Lanen's single. Scott Petrone's perfect sacrifice bunt advanced the runners to set up Pietrinferno's game-winner.

Again, Princeton's bats were mostly silent (four hits off losing pitcher Ed Yaris) but Bender summed up the importance of the win by saying, "We're still alive — that's all I can ask for." Jeff Skalinski scattered seven Post 26 hits for his fourth win — tops among the Post 76 mound staff.

The win was thus a prologue to Saturday's showdown with Hopewell.

BAITING BY BENDER: Princeton Post 76 manager Larry Bender and plate umpire Dave Perry exchange words on where Bender should stand early on in Saturday's game with Hopewell. The season ended for Bender and Post 76 with a 9-7 loss to Hopewell.

My-T-Sharp Rolls On In Summer Basketball

Undefeated My-T-Sharp has posted two more triumphs in its last two starts to raise its record to 9-0 in the Princeton Adult Summer Basketball League.

On Monday at Community Park, My-T-Sharp stopped Princeton High School, 85-69, behind the shooting of two former PHS players, Darius Young and Freddie Young who combined for 43 points. Tom Shockley's 15 was high for the losers.

Last week, My-T-Sharp routed the Dillon Demons, 84-58. The victors had four players in double figures: Charles Brown, 22; Darius Young, 19; Freddie Young, 17, and John Thompson, 16.

"They have a well-balanced team," commented Doug Snyder, Princeton High basketball coach and a co-director of the summer league. "They usually place three or four in double figures."

Dave Wright paced the losers's attack with 22 points. The Demons and PHS are tied in the four-team league with 2-7 records.

SES No. 1 also won twice to stay three games back of the leaders with a 6-3 record.

On Monday, Marv Trotman Jr. poured in 27 points and Scott Fischer added 21, as SES topped the Dillon Demons, 77-61. Trotman is a scholarship student at Elizabeth City State College in North Carolina, the alma mater of his father, Marv Trotman who preceded Snyder as varsity basketball coach at Princeton High.

High for the Demons was James Sbarra with 16, followed by Kirk Williams, 14, and Eric Bosley, 10.

What Went Wrong for Post 76?

Less than two weeks ago, Princeton Post 76, following a 4-3 victory over Hightstown Post 14, owned an 11-7 record with nine games left to play in the Mercer County American Legion League.

Unlike the previous two years when Hamilton had spread-eagled the opposition with back-to-back 25-2 records, this year's Legion race — from the opening day — was a tight one. The consensus was that 15 wins would nail down a playoff berth. Manager Larry Bender, who had guided Post 76 to a 91-45 record the previous four years, was still thinking of an outside shot at first place. At the very least, the playoffs for sure.

And who could blame the fiery Post 76 skipper for being optimistic? Last year, Princeton had won 10 of its last 12 to finish in a three-way tie for third with Ewing and Hopewell, all ending with 17-10 records.

Last year, as runners-up in the Legion State Tournament quarter-finals, Post 76 finished seventh in the State; two years earlier, in 1986, Post 76 emerged as the quarter-final champion and the fourth best Legion team in the State. It had been in the post season playoffs every year since 1985.

Aside from a lack of timely hitting with men on base that resulted in ten one-run losses, and a nine-man pitching staff that never quite measured up to pre-season expectations, what went wrong this year, in a word, was Lawrence. What Bender could not have foreseen was three losses to Lawrence Post 414, which finished second from the bottom in the league with a 9-19 record. Lawrence, unaccountably, was the only team among the other nine to sweep Bender's club.

Post 76 was 3-0 against eighth-place Hightstown and 2-1 against Bordentown, Trenton and Mitchell Davis. Bordentown is the only one of the latter three to finish ahead of Princeton. Against four other teams — Broad Street Park, Ewing, Hopewell, which finished 1-2-3 in the standings, and Hamilton — Post 76 was 1-2.

Had it defeated Lawrence just once, Post 76 would have finished in a three-way tie for fourth place with Bordentown and Hamilton; had it defeated Lawrence twice, it would have finished 15-12, and nailed down a playoff berth.

This was the 35-year-old Bender's seventh season as manager of the Post 76 team, the third longest tenure behind Broad Street Park's Chuck Giambelluca (19 seasons) and Hopewell's Gary Vogler (eight). In that span, Bender has compiled a 124-92-1 record.
